

Informed consent

I understand that some of the material and activities of this course may be challenging. I will also be participating as either research or subject on several experiments. I understand that the only known risks/benefits of these experiments are changes in the way I see, experience and process information and that these effects may be long-lasting.

Juan Angueyra and the Citizen Science staff will do their best to keep your information confidential. For this purpose all data collected during class will be anonymized and protected from tampering. I also agree to uphold confidentiality practices as I leave the laboratories.

I have read the syllabus and I understand what is expected of me in the next three weeks. I agree to fully Engage with the course/lab material, with my fellow course/lab-mates (including Juan Angueyra) and with the invited speakers

In return for my Engagement, I will have my intellectual curiosity scratched. As befits a Liberal Arts education, at the end of three weeks, I won't know all the answers, but I will begin to understand what are the questions worth asking.

.... And I will know more Sciencey Stuff.
